

LICENSE TO PUBLISH

The corresponding author listed as the "Corresponding Author" on the submission site (the "Author") is executing this license to publish (the "License") to Innovation Press with its principal place of business at Room 1006,10/F., Po Yip Building, 23 Hing Yip Street, Kwun Tong, Kowloon, Hong Kong (the "Publisher"), and each of them, along with the Author, constitutes a "Party" (the "Parties").

1. License Granting

This License gives the author the sole, worldwide, royalty-free, perpetual (if the relevant copyright is in effect) right and license to use the Work (as specified in submission system) for any commercial or educational purpose, including but not restricted to publishing, duplicating, marketing, distributing (both directly and through distributors), subleasing, and selling copies of the Work internationally for the Term.

Note: For government employees in different countries, a statement declaring that the viewpoints stated do not necessarily represent those of the military or government agency for which they work may be required for work performed by government employees or military personnel. Please make sure to consult the relevant authorities and incorporate the required statement into the body of your contribution.

2. Warranties, Indemnification, and Limitation of Liability

a. The Authors warrant and represent to the publisher that:

1. The Author possesses the authority and capability to execute this License, to bestow the rights and licenses under it, and to fulfill all the additional duties outlined in it;
2. The person executing this License on the Author's behalf is allowed to do so, and the Author has not previously assigned, transferred, or otherwise encumbered the rights or licenses granted pursuant to this License;
3. The Work and the licenses granted herein do not and will not violate, misappropriate, or infringe upon any proprietary rights, intellectual property rights, contracts, or other third-party rights or interests;
4. In the event that the work is co-authored, the author has received written consent from each co-author to accept this license on their behalf, and each co-author has read, comprehended, and accepted its conditions;
5. All necessary releases and permissions to incorporate works and materials into the Work, including those from patients whose names or likenesses are submitted, have been obtained by the Author; all such releases and permissions are in full force and effect, and the Author will promptly furnish the Publisher with any such release or permission upon request from the Publisher;
6. Except for the Journal (as defined in Section 3), neither the Work nor any of the content it contains, in whole or in part, has been published or is being considered for publication;
7. Prior to or concurrently with the submission of the Work, the Author has given the Publisher notice of all intellectual contributions, technical assistance, financial or material support, and any other relationships that could create or result in a conflict of interest;
8. The copyright of the Author and each additional author of the Work is the only copyright that applies to the Work;
9. The Work does not and will not infringe upon the rights of any third party to privacy or publicity, or defame or disparage any third party;

10. The Work does not and will not include any content that is scandalous, indecent, or carelessly created;

11. The Work has not been and will not be falsely claimed, copied, or misattributed;

12. There is no element of the Author's personal or professional circumstances that might give rise to a conflict of interest with regard to the Work, either now or in the previous 12 months;

13. Nothing of value has been received by the Author, any member of the Author's immediate family, or any person or organization with which the Author has or has had a substantial working relationship from a commercial party that is connected to the Work's subject matter directly or indirectly.

b. The Author agrees to defend and hold harmless the Publisher, its directors, officers, employees, agents, and representatives from and against any and all liability, damage, loss, costs, or expenses (including reasonable attorney's fees and settlement costs) incurred by any such party arising out of, or relating to, any misrepresentation in, or breach or alleged breach of the Author's representations or warranties in this License. The Author does this with this agreement. The parties that are indemnified, or any of them, may take up the defense at the Author's expense if the Author neglects to act in a timely or diligent manner in defending any of the parties. Should this License terminate or expire, the duties under this indemnity shall continue.

3. Creative Commons Licenses

The Author agrees and acknowledges that the Work will be published in Innovation (the "Journal") by the Publisher and made freely accessible to users under the terms of one of the following Creative Commons Licenses; the Author will choose which license to apply in the submission system:

(i) The current version of the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International Public License (the "CC BY") may be seen at <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/legalcode>. The Publisher is the only "Licensor" of the Work, as that term is defined in the CC BY, and the Author acknowledges and accepts that the Publisher may make the Work freely available to all users in accordance with the CC BY.

4. Royalties

The Author understands and accepts that there are no royalties or other costs associated with this License. The author releases the publisher and its sublicensees from all rights to royalties or other payments related to the work or any use of the work, to the fullest extent allowed by law.

5. Miscellaneous

1. Assignment. The Author may not assign or transfer this License, in whole or in part. This License may be freely assigned by the Publisher. This License will benefit the parties hereto, as well as each of their respective successors and authorized assignee, and be binding upon them.

2. Enforcement. For the purposes of this License, signatures in the Portable Document Format (PDF) or via facsimile will be considered original signatures.

3. Complete Agreement; Modification. Regarding the rights and obligations outlined herein, this License contains the whole understanding between the Parties and supersedes all prior or contemporaneous oral or written representations and agreements. It cannot be changed or updated without the Publisher's express written consent.

4. Governing Law. This License shall be governed in all respects by the laws of Hong Kong SAR, China, without regard to its conflict of laws rules.

5. Headings. All headers are only for reference and have no bearing on how any of the provisions inside are understood or interpreted.

6. Severability. Should a court of competent jurisdiction rule that any term of this License is illegal, void, or unenforceable under current or future laws, that provision will be completely severable and will only be enforced to the extent authorized by existing law. This License shall be interpreted and enforced in all cases as though the illegal, invalid, or unenforceable provision had never been a part of it; the remaining provisions of this License shall be unaffected by the illegal, invalid, or unenforceable provision, or by its severance from this License, and shall remain in full force and effect.

7. The Parties' current state. The Parties operate as separate businesses. No agency, joint venture, partnership, or fiduciary relationship between the Parties is intended to be formed or established by anything in this License, and neither Party has the power to bind the other Party or be held accountable for the actions or inactions of the other Party.

8. Amendment and Waiver. The Publisher's failure to assert a breach of any term of this License or its waiver of any prior breach shall not be construed as a waiver of any subsequent breach, nor shall it in any manner impair the continued efficacy of any such provision. This License cannot be waived except by a written agreement from the Publisher on all terms and conditions.

9. Trial by Jury Waiver. In connection with any disagreement or legal action arising out of this agreement or the subject matter hereof, the author thus waives the right to a jury trial.

Title: _____

Authors: _____

Signature: _____

(The corresponding author(s) signs using electronic signature on behalf of all authors.)

Date: _____